
What's going on with the wind?

Posted by kenmorton - 2007/07/03 16:23

Forecast is all over the place.

Have been looking at getting out on Thursday but the forecast seems to be up and down like the proverbial set of crusty underwear.

Got out on Saturday afternoon for a couple of hours because the forecast for Sunday was pretty light but when I checked the stats in the evening they had 22-24kts all afternoon at Rhossy :angry:

=====

Re:What's going on with the wind?

Posted by Shawn - 2007/07/04 07:25

Yeah - I agree Ken - forecasts are miles out & I think I've been missing out on serious winds as a result!! This week no wind has been forecast at all so far - yet as far as I know, it was F5/6 at kirby all day yesterday - with a decent tide too!!

A prime example - right now - 9kt forecast - its blowing F6 right now! - and has been doing since 5am!!!! Aaaaarghhhhh Driving me nuts.

Post edited by: Shawn, at: 2007/07/04 08:29

Post edited by: Shawn, at: 2007/07/04 08:31

Re:What's going on with the wind?

Posted by kenmorton - 2007/07/04 13:15

My problem at the mo' - do I still take tomorrow off when Guru is only showing f4 or wait till Friday for f6 when Theyr is showing f5 tomorrow an nothing at all for Friday!

=====

Re:What's going on with the wind?

Posted by kenmorton - 2007/07/04 13:24

Checking with XCweather and windwatchers only adds to the confusion - both showing wind both days.

Aaaaaaaaaarrrrggghhhh as well!

Re:What's going on with the wind?

Posted by sharkey - 2007/07/04 13:33

Well I reckon Friday's the day - XCweather, windguru and I think windwatcher all use the same GFS data (differences are usually just how often/quickly they sites update)

Proudman Lab mesoscale model is usually reliable and that shows naff all for WK and F4 S'ly for Rhossie tomorrow.

Met office and latest GFS show wind for Friday (and some left into Saturday too:;) B)

Re:What's going on with the wind?

Posted by kenmorton - 2007/07/04 23:13

O.K. theyr now agreeing with guru etc. so Friday it is but now the question is where to go?
Rhossy is out (light westerlies :() so might give Prestatyn a go but the tides are not brilliant.

=====

Re:What's going on with the wind?

Posted by Shawn - 2007/07/05 11:01

Greetings again Mr Morton!!

They appear to have changed their minds again - all seem to be pointing to a fiiiine day at rhossy - F7 in the mornin, decreasing to F5 through the day... W

See ya there?

=====

Re:What's going on with the wind?

Posted by kenmorton - 2007/07/05 13:36

Yeh, more than likely.

Will check first thing tho' just in case.

(Where is the fingers crossed emoticon ?)

=====

Re:What's going on with the wind?

Posted by Shawn - 2007/07/06 06:46

righty - theres definately wind! right now 40+kts at kirby - its 7am & i can see some nutter tearing up the lake already!!
Keen!

Where to go to get the best of it tho'?

ummmmm?

=====

Re:What's going on with the wind?

Posted by kenmorton - 2007/07/06 07:16

Think I am going to give Prestatyn a go this morning. Then either head over to WK in the afternoon or if I am a bit knackered go to work for a rest.

=====

Re:What's going on with the wind?

Posted by Shawn - 2007/07/06 07:23

i'll give u a bell soon mate & meet u there

=====

Re:What's going on with the wind?

Posted by sharkey - 2007/07/06 07:23

BLX:angry:

Stuck in work till 3 and its blowing dogs off chains.

Forecast is for the wind to die back at WK to F5 this afternoon so fingers crossed that there's some wind left later on (I must stop looking at the webcams when I can't get out, so depressing)

Have a good one this morning if you get out, 40 knots!!:woohoo:

=====

Re:What\'s going on with the wind?

Posted by Ernie - 2007/07/06 07:43

BLX:angry:

Stuck in London !!!!!

=====