
Poole Windfest This Weekend

Posted by stu - 2007/09/14 09:54

Anybody going?

=====

Re:Poole Windfest This Weekend

Posted by gopher68 - 2007/09/17 00:02

Excellent event, sadly the windsurfing was forgettable due to the lack of wind, however I doubt the Mags will report it that way.

The wakeboard display was amazing, Guys being pulled by winch from wooden ramps across 2 ponds dug in the sand, it sounds lame but you had to see it to appreciate it. One guy came down on the ramp and got a nasty cut on the throat, the landing puddle was only 4 foot deep

MTBs being bounced on the back wheel up ladders with a 3 foot span onto van roofs and then round a similar course, Thundercat racing, excellent commentaries for all disciplines and a great display of the latest windsurfing kit in the marquee.

Over the past 20 years I have been to a lot of events with a similar level of hype and build up but Animal have got the organisation of this, down to a "T". I'd definitely recommend it for next year, the only problem is finding somewhere to camp within reasonable Taxi distance so you can hit the party.

The only downside was we had to leave on Sunday just as it looked like the wind was going to pick up for the early part of the week.

:dry: :dry: :dry:

Post edited by: gopher68, at: 2007/09/17 00:04

Post edited by: gopher68, at: 2007/09/17 00:06

=====