
Sunday 20kts North Easterly

Posted by Pegleg - 2008/03/15 09:22

Thinking about where to sail in a North Easterly? Should be on for a trip out to the Menai Straits tomorrow (Sunday 16/3). Google map LL54 5RP and follow the road south for another 1/2 mile, park up on the grass verge by the side of the lane. You can sail any state of tide. At low tide (noon) there wont be much water movement so it should be good and flat for freestyle and or blasting. With a bit of luck we'll get some sunshine too!! :) :)

<http://maps.google.co.uk/maps?hl=en&ie=UTF-8&tab=wl>

=====

Re:Sunday 20kts North Easterly

Posted by Shawn - 2008/03/19 13:21

As it happens matey - I'll be staying in Llanfairfechan again all week, so should be up for joining you on Sunday - unless its absolutely fecking freezing, which it may well be.... I'll ring you up so you can harass & bully me into sailing - I seem to have turned all girly over winter....

=====