Hey,

Only Sailed at hells mouth once about 3years ago, so is there anyone that goes there that could tell me weather is going to be any good monday n tuesday, Windgurus giving off some wind on the close range forecasts. with funny directions, but i dont know whats direction is ment to be good there anywayz and i beleive there is ment to be some swell also?

cheerz for the help if anyone answers.

Scott

how do

the beach faces south west, so best in north west, or south east to give cross to cross off. further north or east will be more cross off. I've only sailed it in a north west and each time was good.

magic seaweed do a reasonable swell and wind prediction

<http://magicseaweed.com/Hells-Mouth-Surf-Report/27/> or <http://www.lajollasurf.org/images/euranim.gif> will give you an idea of how the swell is developing over the next 5 days.

have a good one, it'll no doubt be better than my day in the office
