
LOST at West Kirby

Posted by markh - 2008/05/02 20:42

My mate (Who I'll refer to as goldfish brain to save embarrassment) has left his treasured £400 Amex carbon boom leaning against the railings in West Kirby lake car park on Thursday afternoon. Has any body picked it up? I'm sure goldfish brain will give a decent reward to any body good enough to return it. Please help as its not nice watching a grown man cry.

Cheers

Funny stuff i found a rather large boom at west kirby thursday night!!!

Just about to put a ad to find the owner but you beat me to it.

also found a mast extension

shoot me an email

robshennessy@googlemail.com and we can arrange a top secret dropping off point. i'm in oxtun at the moment but flit between heswall and here

Hi Rob, I've told Goldfish that your going to call him, he can collect the boom from you and drop off an 8 pack of beer for you.

Thanks again
Mark

I have lost 12 Neil Pryde race sails, 5 X9 carbon booms and 4 X9 100% carbon masts, I have also lost 3 Starboard Formula boards..

If anyone see's the above items lying around some where, can I have them back.

Thanks

.... Well there's no harm in trying!! Oh by the way, they are all brand new '08 models.
