
West Kirby forecasts

Posted by LeVo - 2008/08/04 12:23

Hi!

Has anyone got any suggestions on which website gives the best forecast for West Kirby please? I normally use Windguru and check on Wirralcam. Is this the best?

Are there any 'rules of thumb' for West Kirby forecasts people are aware of?

It's a long way to go from Warrington if there's no wind!

Cheers for any advice.

When it's working, the Proudman forecasts tend to be pretty accurate.

<http://www.xcweather.co.uk/> lets you see the general wind pattern in the region.

Both the rival Theyr sites (They.tv and They.net) are good. They're subscription sites though, but they do have a free trial facility.

i use xcweather all the time and if its got west in the forecast you can usually add 10 -15 mph more or check out the isle of man forecast which is usually correct for what we get a 12 mph westerly forecast usually means 25 mph + :cheer:

There is another way.....

Check the webcam, then

Phone Bob in the Hut (Not Bobba the Hut that's Star Wars B)

They'll usually give you a good idea of what it's actually like

Prayer is the final alternative like we all did on Sunday.

(Failed miserably)

Don't you just love the M62 from Warrington! :laugh:

Try Windguru <http://www.windguru.cz/int/index.php?sc=99> or Metcheck <http://www.metcheck.com/V40/UK/FREE/today.asp?zipcode=ch486EQ> for a forecast, or for a live weather feed from Hilbre Island try thr Proudman Laboratory site <http://cobs.pol.ac.uk/cobs/met/hilbre/> or try the webcam down at the lake on <http://www.wirralcam.org/westkirby.shtml>
