
New Windsurfing Video \"Do as I Do\"

Posted by mikifier - 2008/11/06 20:33

Hey Guys

Finally got my new video from NW Donegal Made. Check it out on my website www.mikeyclancy.com and let me know what you think.

I was using an Evo 70 and Evil Twin 74 and a 4.3 S1 and a 3.3 Blade.

The Day with the 3.3 was nuts windy dont no how I even managed to sail. When you see a 100kg guy maxed out on a 3.3 and a 70 litre board you know its WINDY!!

Take It Easy

Mikey

=====

Re:New Windsurfing Video \"Do as I Do\"

Posted by kenmorton - 2008/11/06 23:24

Looks like you had a cracking session. What beach was it and what wind/swell direction? Always fancied a trip to the north of Ireland.

Especially liked the 1Â½ back loop especially in 3.3m weather!

=====

Re:New Windsurfing Video \"Do as I Do\"

Posted by stu - 2008/11/07 08:14

Ireland has so much more to offer than Brandon Bay. BB is a great place (had my best sail ever here) but Belmullet is an amazing place, and looking at Donegal in this video, also looks like some amazing spots.

Greenie 2 should be out soon, too...

=====

Re:New Windsurfing Video \"Do as I Do\"

Posted by mikifier - 2008/11/07 08:52

The Beach Is called Magheroarty in Donegal...

Best wind for it is SW with and with a NW swell you will have the best days sailing ever.

You can sail it a good few other Directions by moving around the Horse shoe bay

But when its best is like i said above.

Brandon Bay is a real good sport if your in ireland only a short trip as there is a spot for every wind and swell direction. But if your staying for longer there is a whole choice of other to class spots. The List is still the length of my arm and im living here.

Glad you both liked the video!!!

=====