
New weather page for South Coast

Posted by jamie_scw - 2011/07/17 12:18

I was starting to get frustrated with having to visit loads of different sites to get an idea of what the weather, wind and tide was doing and going to do before deciding whether to get out for a session, so I built a new website with a weather page that brings together all the bits that I find most useful.

Just thought that you might find it useful too - it basically gives a really good picture of conditions and forecasts for the south coast around hampshire and dorset.

Hope you find it useful. <http://www.southcoastwatersports.co.uk/weather-tides/>
