I've managed to blag Friday off work and plan a trip to WK, tides at 11:22. How long either side can you sail? Anybody else planning to be out in the morning?

I'm hoping to make it on Friday. I would guess the tide is sailable roughly about an hour and a half either side of high tide, but I'm a relative newbie so others here can probably give more accurate advice.

You can probably get out about 1.5 hours either side of high tide if you're prepared to go to the South end of the lake. But watch out as it does get shallow quite quickly and I'm sure there is a good crop of fins embedded in the sand bank which lies parallel to the marine lake wall.
