
Sail tommorow anyone (Sunday)?

Posted by David_Whiteley - 2005/01/01 11:46

Forecast looks good for Grimwith. Anyone up for it?

Some of us sailed on Thursday on 4-5m in strong winds, mild temperatures and sunshine.

Dave

=====

Sail tommorow anyone (Sunday)?

Posted by John - 2005/01/01 13:51

Unfortunately I am working and can't sail till Wednesday, sure you will have some company up there today.

Are you up for a sail latter in the week, the forecast looks good?

Happy New Year!

=====

Sail tommorow anyone (Sunday)?

Posted by philhunter - 2005/01/01 19:50

hi, i might sail tomorrow but temperature doesn't look too good. monday looks a bit warmer and its still hoiday! Also depends on my recovery rate (slightly too much alchfrol) but i suppose if the suns out i could change my mind.

=====

Sail tommorow anyone (Sunday)?

Posted by David_Whiteley - 2005/01/02 11:01

Phil, that sound's like a good plan.

Dave

=====

Sail tommorow anyone (Sunday)?

Posted by John - 2005/01/03 09:47

Current conditions are Westerly 22mph westerly gusting over 30mph. B@#$%ds!! Still stuck at work.

Can anyone sail wed, thurs or friday, trip to the coast is always a possibility??

