I seem to remember talk of a rigging area at west kirby mooted on this site way back, what became of this? In fact, come to think of it what happened to any of the improvements at the lake and what happens to all the lake fees? Can anyone justify the price of the license? I've seen the improvements happening at the WK sailing club.....And why aren't the Chav's in their Corsa's kept out by the barrier.....Rant, rave.....

Anyone feel free to vent some frustration after me.

isn't that ramp for cars, such as the life guard, with the added bonus that we can use it too.

I must admit that I think 11 quid is a bit rude considering all yer gear gets trashed on the tarmac and the changing rooms are not exactly luxurious. Having said that, it is a truly great place to sail offering benefits that no other venue has.

There's talk within the local council of redeveloping the entire site - more info on that on wirral mbc website - but don't hold your breath.

The plan apparently is to demolish the whole lake and put up a 400 seat bird viewing platform with heated seats. Behind the seats will be a purpose built execution suite (gallows, guillotine, lethal injection, electric chair...etc) to dispatch anyone who thniks mother nature is to be enjoyed in a sporting manner. First to be invited in for 'drinks' will be the kitesurfers followed by windsurfers and finally anyone who walks on the beach and gets a strange look from a bird (the feathered kind not a piece of Birken'ed scrumpet).

They came for the kitesurfers - I said nothing

They came for the windsurfers - I said nothing

They came for the sailors - I said nothing

When they came for me there was nobody left to speak out.....

Re the barrier! yes it should be kept shut but quite a few chavs AND SAILORS come in through the one way and avoid the barrier and paying. The wardens do see these things going on, like a man actually swimming down the wall! he even got changed on the car park. I have seen 9 fishing and some one being towed on a 'ringo' when we were blasting. All these things were ignored by the lake staff (one was too busy working on his car) so I think we are on our own because they don't give a **** about us or the poor facilities they provide for the very, very expensive rates they charge.

Thats my moan for the day over!!!

What happens if somebody doesn't pay the fee? It seems that from what is being said, the wardens couldn't give an arse about most things so how about a fee boycott? Lets have an anonymous vote here on the site. Should we pester the wardens for better facilities & keeping people out of the car park or boycott the fees if they can't be bothered to police the place anyway.

It's 7.50 for a day launch @ carsington - they have a visitors centre for the non windsurfing relations, they have a friendly group of staff that are keen to help and excellent rescue facilities (don't they Suze sorry Steve!!:wink: ). You also get amazing scenery and about 3-5 miles of lake to blast around.

Kinda puts what you are going on about in perspective doesn't it!!

Err as for what suzie put - I would like to draw people to the carsington galleries of me undertaking a catamaran - hands up who has done that before??

I agree with Planesinafart, to may people are using the "out" road to slip into the car park and not pay. Its about time the wardens did something about this and also stop other using the car park, like the pidgeon lady!!!!

I've found that there's no need to use the out road to sneak in - it's fairly easy sneaking in through the barrier. I've lost count of the number of times I've just driven through while the warden gazes passively out to sea. I just don't think they can be bothered to open the window if it's a bit cold/wet/windy, and strangely enough it's often all of those when I go. I might feel incredibly smug about all the money I've saved but as I spent 100 odd quid on an annual licence I don't feel smug at all.

Does this ever get discussed at the www meetings? This group must be able to put forward a collective voice on the subject.

What powers do the wardens have. Do they own a wheel clamp? Are they backed up by law?

How many others haven't got a licence?

www - Ha you must be joking. They do nothing except hold their monthly meetings were the only thing they arrange is the date of the next monthly meeting. Have you ever seen a www presence at the lake? i've heard a few of them photocopy licences too.

Wardens are a lazy shower tho'. they should be able to keep the knobs in their corsa's and escorts off the car park that's what they're supposed to be there for.

Anyone from www care to defend themselves?

Sounds like a challenge for you guys. I for one would consider joining and paying a subscription if they could prove that they are a committed group to doing something at the lake. They do seem a bit like the masons as a secretive society judging by what you read on this site.

I don't see that the www have anything to do with it - the lake is run by the council and I think that's the biggest problem - if it was a privately run enterprise they would be more likely to do whatever is best for business which means not missing any fares and developing the aspects their consumers want. The council works to a different set of rules.....

I didn't bother with a licence for years for all the reasons above. you can always launch from the far end of the lake ?

If they are at the window tell them you're going to see Gif - if they say why the gear tell them you're selling it to him /part ex'ing it.

What do the www do then? Secret handshakes and stuff? I thought the original impetus for them forming was to fight the bird restrictions. Seems like any other group in politics, lost interest. C'mon Bert & Ernie give us some insight into what you are up to, you may even get some of us to join.... if you want to that is, or are you wanting a small select 'elite' gang to form a clique at WK? Any other members of the www can also reply.

Way back when.....

Its the council who should be doing something about it. The wardens will be heading for the dole queue if they're letting people through without paying. The people that aren't paying are jeopardising the future of windsurfing at WK, because if its not seen as economically viable then the council WILL sell off the land and build a hotel.

Perhaps we should ask the wardens why people aren't stopped ? There's a 3rd party insurance declaration on the licence form, so how many people are sailing uninsured ?

Think about it, its not that clever being a cheating b'stard you always get your payback and the "chavs" will get the last laugh !

Way back when.....

West Wirral Windsurfers club (WWW) has been about for many years, the club was not "formed to fight the bird restrictions". I join the club last year, I'd head there was a club but did know much about it until the issue regarding the Bird Restrictions.

Having moved to the area about 6 years ago but sail regularly at West Kirby for the past 10+ years, I would say I know a far few of the regulars at West Kirby some are members of WWW some are not. I don't intend to force anyone to join WWW nor would I stop anyone. I wouldn't say the club is elite gang or a clique, and the members I know don't want that type of club or for the club to be seen that way. During the time I've sailed at West Kirby there's been plenty of cliques / elite gangs and politics among the many people who sailed at West Kirby, live and let live.

What does the club get up to? Last year the WWW raised over 400 for local charities, had a couple of trips away, arranged a Mounting Boarding course and discounted coaching sessions with Windy John. This Year? Not sure yet, some members are going snow boarding, they're also going to Club Vass sometime in the summer. There's bound to be a few camping trips to North Wales / Anglesey and probably the Raft Race and 24Hour Windsurf. If anyone wants to join in these activities they can.

Maybe WWW needs to step it up a gear, but that's up to the members. You will find in life that some people will do things for no reward or kudos, while others want something for nothing. You will also find that people have priorities, Do I go Windsurfing or try to improve the facilities at West Kirby. People's priorities vary with time.

If you feel that the club may be able to help with Raising the Standard! (sorry had to get that in working for Vauxhall ) of the Facilities at the Lake, I'll arrange for it to be added to the agenda of the next meeting on Monday 21st March 8.00 p.m. at West Kirby Social Club, Look forward to seeing you there.

Sorry I got the date wrong the next meeting is Monday 11th April 2005 at 8.00pm

Quote: C'mon Bert & Ernie give us some insight into what you are up to, you may even get some of us to join....

I only speak for myself but I think Ernie will agree that neither of us are at all big in the www. We have both known about the club for a long time but only joined last year. Neil is right that the club does many good things and is well worth the involvement if that's your bag. Personally I'm finding it hard to make time to windsurf (three times last season ?) never mind be an active participant in a club. Ernie has a young family and job etc as well.

Way back when.....

Posted by TwoFish - 2005/03/01 07:08

Well I only joined WWW last year and I've no personal history / issues with the club or any of the individuals involved. Therefore I can't add a lot of factual detail (other than to agree with what Neil's added). Obviously I'm not going to give away the club's secret passwords, initiation ceremonies or any of that stuff either, but for what it's worth my experience of WWW so far has been:

I turned up one Saturday last year in reponse to announcement on this site about all-comers longboard fun racing that WWW were organising. I've never tried racing before but the format sounded like a good way to stretch myself a bit and get to know some more of the sailors on the WK lake. WWW had organised the longboards. All I had to do was bring a 7.5 rig.

So, I turned up, the guys (mainly Mike) provided me with a board, introduced me to some of the others and explained how the racing worked. As it happened the wind then kicked in much stronger than forecasted (how often does that happen?) and shortboard racing became a much better option, so it was back onto our own kit. No matter, we had a good couple of hours of 'fun slalom' racing, which I thouroughly enjoyed. Despite the fact that I was grossly overpowered, underskilled and probably a public hazard, the guys there were all very welcoming and seemed a good bunch of blokes. I liked what I saw and I joined the club.

Since then I've been on an excellent gybe training session with Windy John (at a bargain price, organised and subsidised by WWW) and would have joined in more events if it hadn't been for work commitments and injury.

I guess it's in the very nature of clubs that some people put in a lot of effort to organise things, see to the admin, chase the subs etc and then all they get in return is criticism and suggestions that they should have done things differently. The bottom line for me is that the guys who run the club seem to do it well to me. I'll certainly be renewing my membership this year. As for 'clique', they let me join so it can't be that exclusive Rich mans sport, and hairy arse truckers it would seem. You can buy 238.1 footballs from decathlon for less than the price of my next board. I reckon 238.1 footballs should last until er.... 2024 if you use a new ball every month - boards are lucky to make it through a season without death by car park rash.....

Will 4 and a half lines do or is that too much?

now that kind of talk is definetly rich mans territory unless you're on really good terms with your dealer.....typical coming from a Manc

Bit more blah but WOW!

What a sunset and tried the Sunset Lounge for the first time in ages.

It was pretty good, good music, great view but shame about the underage drinkers outside in the park.

Reckon we could hype this place up to be a great surfing hangout in WK post windsurf!!

Sunset lounge is that hexagonal building half way down the marine lake that masquerades in the day time as half pub / half ice cream parlour. Views over the lake and the estuary are superb when the sun sets..... hence the name.
