

---

SAS at West Kirby

Posted by Kaff - 2006/06/15 12:22

---

Just a reminder about the SAS thingy at West Kirby tonight.
Is anyone else going ?

.....yes I know the footie is one but to be honest if England aren't 4-0 up by 7pm they might as well forget it anyway

---

Re:SAS at West Kirby

Posted by Slim - 2006/06/15 13:38

---

Hi Kaff, I am gutted as I was planning on coming down to the meeting as it is something that I am keen on. I am going to be working late as I have client visits to do till 7ish and would have been coming over from North Manchester. I have mentioned the prospect of sailing over to wales in a big hi-ho type event when the wind and tide is right on the forum, and it sounds like there might be quite a few people who are keen on doing it. This could be used as a publicity stunt for SAS??? That was going to be my suggestion at the meeting, but seeing as I literally cannot go (no, it is not the footie, as I couldn't give a monkeys about it) you could mention it?

Thanks/ Sorry

Sim.

---

Re:SAS at West Kirby

Posted by Strontiumdog - 2006/06/15 15:03

---

I intend to be there. A bit gutted though as it means i'll miss the 2nd half.
Hey Ho - five live on the radio will have to suffice.

---

Re:SAS at West Kirby

Posted by Kaff - 2006/06/15 15:39

---

Slim - no probs I'll mention your day trip to Wales.

I don't really get the bit about living in North Manchester and not being interested in footie...weird!

S..Dog - the commentary is infinitely better on radio 5 anyway, the TV coverage has been shocking!

---

Re:SAS at West Kirby

Posted by TwoFish - 2006/06/15 16:21

---

Can't make it I'm afraid, but great to see SAS here. It would be lovely if a bit of publicity about Dee estuary water quality could be generated.

(also living in Manchester and couldn't give a monkey's about the football :))

Post edited by: TwoFish, at: 15/06/2006 17:23

---

Re:SAS at West Kirby

Posted by fatboy - 2006/06/15 18:51

---

A woman that likes football:ohmy:

---

Comparing the radio 5 coverage to the BBC and ITV, do you know the offside rule?:blink:

Kaff, can you cook as well?

;)

Why you not in Vass this year?

=====

Re:SAS at West Kirby

Posted by Slim - 2006/06/16 07:56

---

Morning! How did it go? what did we miss?

Ta!

=====

Re:SAS at West Kirby

Posted by Kaff - 2006/06/16 09:29

---

Hi Slim,

The meeting was good, there were about 15 people there windsurfers, sailors & a kitesurfer. SAS explained their current campaign issues and how they got their message across by direct action against the water companies/government or educating water users & the general public about the need for cleaner water/beaches.

They really need the water users in the Dee Estuary to feed back to them any water quality issues, but seemed quite happy to get involved in anyway necessary....e.g. tackling the water companies over water issues, educational talks to kids in the local area or campaigns to hilight the use of greener cleaning products.

=====

Re:SAS at West Kirby

Posted by Kaff - 2006/06/16 09:34

---

.....and Fatboy "Football & Cooking" don't even go there!

and yes I'm not in Vass this year, so be afraid be very afraid

=====