

---

problem

Posted by Bert - 2003/07/25 13:36

---

Hi Lee,

Such are the joys of movie clips on the internet, I am finding....

It turns out .avi files are even worse as they can be created using very many different 'codecs' and you need the right one to be able to play it.

Can't imagine why Quicktime player doesn't play the .mov's ? Does it give you a reason/error message ?

I aim to have all clips in .mpg format as well as .mov soon - it just takes a bit of doing !

I've quite a few new ones as well so bear with us we'll get them up there.....

Bert

=====

problem

Posted by Ernie - 2003/07/25 13:38

---

Lee,

All works well for me so I don't know what going on

I'm using NT4 though @ work and Win2000 @ home.

...oh and the clips are very very good !!!

Ern.

p.s BEWARE : Bert'll probably recommend you buy a Mac.

=====

problem

Posted by gopher68 - 2005/09/26 06:56

---

I have tried to remove the subscription status from a couple of Forums several times with no success. When I click the "Edit my Preferences" button I get the following message

---

Fatal error: Maximum execution time of 30 seconds exceeded in /home/iwindsur/public_html/pnadodb/adodb.inc.php on line 2577

=====

problem

Posted by Bert - 2005/09/30 18:57

---

Hi Gopher68

This works perfectly for me every time

Can you give me some basic details about the setup you are using - browser and operating system versions ??

thanks,

Bert

=====

problem

Posted by Ernie - 2005/10/01 07:50

---

Hi Gopher - as I mentioned in the PrivateMessage It works OK for me too. So I logged on under your ID (thx for the pw) and I get the same error as you !!!! - which suggests it's something to do with your account.

IN the short term you can go - rather than go into edit my preferences - go into each forum category and unsubscribe using the option on the top. I tried this for the first one 'Windsurfing venues' and it works OK.

I'll leave Bert to hack the code.....

=====

problem

Posted by gopher68 - 2005/10/02 08:57

---

Thanks guys, sounds like a letter from my bank manager.

=====